The printing process means that we cannot guarantee the colours shown in the photographs will exactly replicate in the final product(s). Floral arrangements shown on some of the products are not included. On occasion manufactures will have updated their designs slightly as processes evolve, these changes will be subtle and out of our control. All the natural products will have slight variations in colour and texture due to the nature of the product itself; we will, if we have to substitute a product, make sure it represents a like for like product and if we need to upgrade a product, absorb any increase in the price, but will always discuss the matter with the customer prior to making a descision. Please be aware that although we carry a vast stock of items, some products may have to be specially ordered, especially bespoke designs, this could cause a delay in being able to confirm funeral dates / times.
